NCTA certified – what that means

The National College Testing Association (NCTA) is a non-profit organization of testing professionals that have come together to

- Enhance professional testing practices
- Offer opportunities for professional development
- Advance Collaborative efforts among testing professionals, testing companies, and other policy-making agencies.

NCTA certified – what that means

The benefit of the organization and certification

- It provides standardized best practices in the testing industry for the fair and secure delivery of all exams
- Assists the community in finding testing centers that will administer exams at an industry standard ensuring the administration of their exam is fair and secure
- Provides us with professional development specific to test administration and networking with other testing professionals and companies.

How to use our services

The Testing Center is here to assist with a student who

- Needs to make up an exam
- Needs a place to test due to technology issues
- Needs special accommodations for testing that cannot be met in the classroom or in the online format

Professors Need to Know

We have a portal just for professors to submit the instructions for their exams. In this portal, professors can see their active exams and which student have registered for the exam and when they complete the exam.

- Go to our website www.osuokc.edu/assessment
- Click on the Make-up Exams
- All the instructions are here
- Or you can contact the Testing Center and we are happy to assist.

The exam submission MUST be submitted and APPROVED by the testing center BEFORE the students can make an appointment for the exam.

Students need to know

Once the exam submission is approved, tell your student to make an appointment through our website (www.osuokc.edu/assessment) There is a big orange button that says “Schedule an Exam”

All tests require an appointment.
